"The natural boundary is the Columbia River." But some inky fingered rascal in some office takes a reading pin and cuts a line across the 49th parallel—and even then we had to make a bulge in it to get Victoria in. We owe that to George Vancouver."

Sir Ernest admits it is rather face to do anything about Canada's two lost provinces. But he reriously believes there is plenty of time to rub out the Island's name and do it sgain.

He is willing to help in any campaign for the change.

Milk Price Increase Could Work Two Ways

N the near future the one-man Milk Board of British Columbia will begin public hearings on applications by the milk industry for authority to charge higher prices in this area. The board al-ready has granted increases in controlled areas of the Mainland, and since a large part of the Island's milk comes from the same source it seems likely that the board will view the local request sympathetically.

For all we know at this juncture the industry may be able to make out a good case for higher prices. Increased costs of living affect those engaged in the produc-tion and distribution of milk the same as everyone else; and it is reasonable to suppose that their operating costs have not escaped the general upward pressure. Just the same, the industry and the board would do well to consider the law of diminishing returns and to remember that raising the price of a commodity does not always produce more revenue.

There is evidence to support this in results of the last milk price increases here, and in the more recent experience of Ontario. There, a very small increase in price brought about a decrease of 416,400 quarts in the total volume of sales over a period of one year. Since there was a gain in population during that time, the falling off in milk sales can only be attributed to public resistance to higher prices. Is it worth while to get a higher price for milk (or for any other necessary com-modity, for that matter) if the net effect of the increase is to depress sales, while at the same time working hardship on those who must continue to buy? Much of the milk now sold is for adult consumption, and grown-ups could get along with less milk, or none at all, without too serious consequences to health. After all, there is no reason to suppose that nature ever in-tended mature human beings to go on drinking baby food. It would not require much reduction in the adult intake to wipe out any advantage from higher retail prices. This is something for the board to think about before doing anything to make ditions harder for those who really need

B.C. Did Not Fare So Badly ERIT is now at least one consideration in the appointment of King's

Counsel, but it seems that British Columbia did not "suffer" unduly when political favoritism was the chief recommendation for this honor. By comparison with the rest of Canada this province has been almost simon pure in the distribution of the red satchel and silk. As of 1950 only 7 per cent of the lawyers of British Colum-bia are King's Counsel; and never in the years was the proportion more than 12 per cent.

These revealing figures are shown in a statistical survey published in the Canadian Bar Review. By contrast one-third or more lawyers in Ontario, Quebec, Saskat chewan and Alberta are K.C.'s, a propor-tion that cheapens the honor. All during the last half-century, in fact, while K.C.'s

HOSPITAL PREMIUMS

Sir, Bill received for hospital insurance is mewhat confusing. Billing period is definitely due date your benefits will be restricted; in addition you will be guilty of an offence against Section 11 (2) of The Hospital Insurance Act," I staim that if I pay my fee (which is a payment in advance, for a given period) on or before January 1, 1801, I am cartairly entitled to any benefit the insurance offers. Other destroyers are being taken out of reserve to be refitted for an active role again, but they will be only names on paper for a considerable time to come. All of which, presumably, need cause no undue alarm even if the Western nations are arm ing to the teeth. If one is not to doubt the acumen of National Defence Headquarters one must assume complacency to be a vir No wonder officialdom does not spur itself about civil defence; what is the use when there is no adequate military defence Perhaps, however, the West Coast has al-ready been written off, at least this would save Ottawa a lot of bother.

After All

were appointed right and left elsewhere in Canada the dignity was bestowed sparingly in this province. Always in British Columbia the proporties lagged behind the rest, of the country, so that today the percentage is but one-fourth the average for the whole

This would suggest that the old system as practised here was not so "wicked" as its ritics claimed, and that even when political virtue was a dominant criterion, a creditable restraint was imposed. Nevertheless the change made at the last session of the Legislature, whereby the legal profession itself would have some say in K.C. appointments, is a good one, At least it should ensure that merit balances the scales against political-expediency. But it would be frony if the change results in an increase of K.C.'s, as the Canadian Bar Review survey intimates might be the case.

It just doesn't make sense. It would be interesting to know just when, and how, this extra-ordinary power was obtained.

Or instead of an increase in the price of butter, sensider 12 ounces to a pound and leave the price as is. Three quarts of milk to the gallon would do away with an increase in

That, we submit, is enough to make sity folks tremble. The farmer's dozen would, be the reverse of the baker's

The consumer, it will be noted, got no advantage. The consumer never does. But with 10-for-a-dozen eggs, a 12-ounce pound of butter, and a three-quart gallon of milk, where would the consumer end up? He has an idea that eggs and butter and milk are far too sive already,

The 10-for-a-dozen take-home eggs is, of course, not a new idea. It's just the farm version of the shrunken, chocolate. The bar shrank in size so that the price might be maintained. Then, with the bar shrunken, the price (with the assistance of a tax) was raised. Smaller bar, bigger price. And who can say that the 10-for-adosen egg wouldn't take another jump, too, instead of-like Humptyfump, too, instead of—like Humpty— Dumpty—taking a great fall? Where is this thing going to end, anyway?
